

MILITARY MODELLING

February 2013.

News from adm models and their series of resin cast diorama accessories. In addition to extending their range of 1:48 scale ruined buildings and the like, they have also turned their hands to 1:72 scale as well. Their first three releases will go nicely together, though each are sold separately. A section of cobbled street, a ruined industrial building and a café. They have also included the rubble strewn interior floors as well. Nicely cast and simple to assemble and incorporate within a scene, it is good to see their 1:48 scale range prove popular and now the smaller scale series as well perhaps. Available direct from adm models. See their website for details at .

Some 1:72 scale diorama accessories are new from adm models.

